About This Game

Stranded after his ship is destroyed in deep space, Harrison, a lowly maintenance worker and our hero, must struggle to find his way home...

LOST ORBIT centers around the exploration of space. Players take control of a lone astronaut (Harrison) who sets off on a dangerous journey to rejoin his civilization, armed with only an improvised set of equipment and a relentless spirit. Without the help of his ship, Harrison will need to use the gravitational forces of planets to navigate and propel himself through space.

Set in a world rich with comedy and tragedy, LOST ORBIT is a game filled with risk, loneliness, wonder, and death.

Features:

- Explore 40 levels set across 4 unique solar systems on your perilous journey home.
- Each level features a detailed ranking system and time trial mode.
- Choose and upgrade your set of abilities to customize Harrison as you see fit through a light RPG system.
- Boost, swim, bounce, leap and teleport your way through a myriad of obstacles.

- Simple and intuitive controls make the game easy to pick up, yet surprisingly deep.
 - Balanced between tense technical moments and cathartic graceful flight, LOST ORBIT is a game that is instantly immersive and satisfying to play.
 - Die alone in space; where no one will know of your struggle.

It's only 3 bucks...but it only lasts 2 hours. Barely. Nice distraction. Basically you glide through levels and evade obstacles, hitting speed boosts, etc. Most levels take around 2 to 3 minutes. You gather stuff to upgrade your suit, though that's rather inconsequential. Knowing what I know now I would only invest in gaining resources easier and upgrading my boost. Speaking of which...there is a boost in the game and you can upgrade the capacity, sadly this is never really replenished in game...only a minuscule amount, before you're back to the minimum, which you can use for like 1 second.

At times the game is just overwhelmingly fast and bright, but I'm also getting older...am slightly sick, etc. and I still beat it within 2 hours...sooo. Yeah.
